DISCLAIMER

The International Film Festival The Hague shows diverse and thought-provoking films covering a wide range of genres, themes, and content from throughout the world. Most films have not been classified, there is no censorship, and some may contain robust language, violence, nudity, sexual content and challenging ideas. We understand that individual preferences and sensitivities may vary, and certain films may contain content that some viewers may find it disagreeable, challenging, disturbing, or unsuitable for certain age group. It is therefore important to use your own judgement and watch accordingly.

All films screened at this festival are exhibited under the assumption that the filmmakers own or have obtained all necessary rights, licenses, and permissions for the use of any copyrighted or intellectual property materials. The festival and its organizers disclaim any liability for potential infringements or violations of copyright, trademark, or other intellectual property rights. Responsibility for any such violations rests solely with the submitting filmmaker.

All film screenings, timings and sequencing are subject to change at the organisers' discretion.
